Introduction

About the Aṣṭottara Śatanāmāvali

The Aṣṭottara Śatanāmāvali (अष्टोत्तर शतनामावलि) is a garland of one hundred and eight sacred names of Lord Hanumān — the matchless devotee of Śrī Rāma, the embodiment of strength, wisdom, and selfless service. Chanting or meditating upon these names is considered an act of devotion (bhakti) that brings courage, removes obstacles, and fills the heart with the grace of Śrī Rāma.

Why 108?

The number 108 holds deep significance across Indian spiritual traditions. It represents the distance ratio between the Earth and the Sun, the number of beads on a japa mālā, and is encoded in the 108 Upaniṣads, 108 divine names of Viṣṇu, and countless other sacred lists. Repeating a name 108 times or reflecting on 108 names is believed to complete a full spiritual cycle.

How to Use This Booklet

Each entry presents: (1) the sequential number, (2) the name in Devanāgarī script, (3) a segmented IAST transliteration with diacritics showing syllable boundaries for accurate pronunciation, and (4) an English meaning. You may use this booklet for daily nāma-japa, study, or as a devotional reference.

Pronunciation Guide

In IAST: ā ī ū are long vowels (held twice as long as short ones); ṭ ḍ ṇ are retroflex consonants (tongue curled back); ś and ṣ are two distinct 'sh' sounds; ñ is the palatal nasal; ṁ is the anusvāra nasal resonance. Syllable boundaries are marked by hyphens in the segmented IAST column.
